The Danger Of Clicking "I Agree"

Most people generally understand that when they click "I Agree" to the terms of use or other agreement when registering to use a website or purchasing products or services online, that they will be bound by the terms of that agreement, and are therefore agreeing to an enforceable contract. But let's face it, most of us do NOT actually read all the fine print, or at least carefully. Make sure that when clicking "I Agree" online, you know what you are agreeing too! While your intent may have been to purchase this product or service one time, you may have actually agreed to reoccurring monthly payments or subscriptions!
